ENCOUNTER WITH A BOA CONSTRICTOR.—One of the most thrilling incidents which has ever come to our knowledge, occurred a few days since in a "side show" with Van Amburgh & Co.'s Menagerie, where two enormous snakes, an anaconda and a boa constrictor, were on exhibition. Both of the huge reptiles are kept in one cage with a glass top, opening at the side, and the keeper was engaged in the act of feeding them when the event occurred. The larger of the snakes, the boa constrictor, which is some thirty feet long, and as large around the middle as a man's thigh, had just swallowed two rabbits, when the keeper introduced his arm and body into the cage for the purpose of reaching a third to the anaconda in the opposite corner. While in this position the boa, not satisfied with his share of the rations, made a spring, probably with the intention of securing the remaining rabbit, but instead fastened its jaws upon the keeper's hand, and with the rapidity of lightning threw three coils around the poor fellow, thus rendering him entirely helpless. His shouts of distress at once brought several men to his assistance, and among them, fortunately, was a well known showman named Townsend, a man of great muscular power, and what was of much more importance, one who had been familiar with the habits of these repulsive monsters all his life, having owned some of the largest ones ever brought to this country. The situation of the keeper was now perilous in the extreme. The first thing to do was to uncoil the snake from around him, but in attempting this the reptile should become in the least degree enraged, he would, in a second, contract his coils with a power sufficient to crush the life out of him. A single quick convulsion of the creature, and the keeper's soul would be in eternity! This, Townsend fully understood, so without attempting to disturb the boa's hold upon the keeper's hand, he managed by powerful yet extremely cautious movement to uncoil the snake without exciting him, after which, by the united exertions of two strong men, the jaws were pried open and the man released in a completely exhausted condition. The bite of the boa constrictor is not poisonous, and although the latter's hand was much swollen the next day, no serious results were apprehended. A more narrow escape from a most horrible death, it would be difficult to imagine.—Columbus [illegible]

SALE OF REBEL REAL ESTATE.—Under the Act of Congress authorizing the Government to sell real estate in the insurrectionary States on non payment of the direct taxes, proceedings are to be at once instituted in Virginia.—Under the direction of J. C. Underwood, Fifth Auditor of the Treasury, the Tax Commissioners appointed for the State of Virginia by the President, John Hawxhurst, John Lewis and Lewis Ruffner, are to sell at public vendue certain rebel estates in the counties of Fairfax and Fauquier, the proceeds to be paid into the Treasury. Persons now absent from their estates can return, and by proving their loyalty to the Government and paying interest and a percentage for expenses, redeem their property. The estates of the eminent rebels John A. Washington and Gen. Lee will be among the first thus disposed of.

THE MASSACHUSETTS SIXTH.—The famous Massachusetts Sixth Regiment has determined again to volunteer for the nine months' call. It was this regiment that cut its way through Baltimore on the 19th of April, 1861, when the National Capitol was threatened by the rebels.

THE LEGAL TENDER QUESTION.—The following is the syllabus of a case lately decided in the District Court of the city and county of Philadelphia:

Schoenberger vs. Watts. Defendants executed a bond with warrant of attorney, for $28,000, payable "in specie, current gold and silver money of the United States," and "that no existing law or laws, and no law or laws which may be hereafter enacted, shall operate or be construed as operating to allow payment to be made in any other money than that above designated," "the said obligors expressly waiving the benefit derived or to be derived from such law or laws."

Judgment was entered and fi. fa. issued, in which the Sheriff was required to levy the debt and interest "in specie, current gold and silver money." The Court, on motion, set aside the fi. fa., and held: That the fi. fa. was irregular, as a final judgment is necessarily for lawful money, and is payable in any money which the law has made a legal tender.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue
With the stars in all [illegible] and true
Arise and defend it [illegible]

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT 27, 1862

From Salem

We failed to receive our reports of Thursday's proceedings of the Legislative Assembly last evening, owing partly to the return home of one of our regular reporters, and perhaps the neglect of the other. We are informed however, that no particular measure of importance was passed or defeated. The attention of the Legislature is at this time principally devoted to the consideration of the code as introduced from the Code Committee. Several important acts are introduced therein which should require, and we hope may receive, much care and investigation before passing, among which is the Civil Practice Act, and General Incorporation Law. We are informed, and we have no reason to doubt it, that the Code Commission have devoted much labor in the formation of the several acts presented, but notwithstanding this fact, as also the recommendation of the Governor that they be adopted without amendment or alteration, still we urge the propriety and duty of the members to carefully investigate these acts and understand the same as far as possible before voting for their adoption. We object, not only from the importance of these laws to the whole people of the State, but also for the credit of those who have been entrusted with the responsible duties of legislators, to voting blindly for the passage of acts of great importance. Should such a course be adopted, an act might be passed to hang one half the members before they were fully aware of what they had done, hence the necessity of a careful examination, as we have heretofore believed that a large majority of the Legislature were good Union men and we don't want to see any but traitors and blood-stained culprits hung.

A general incorporation act is perhaps needed under the peculiar ruling of our Constitution, but it must be remembered that such acts are the most dangerous that ever came before a peaceable, prosperous and independent country, and should be scrutinized with a jealous eye before they become laws.

Another very important item to be kept in rememberance is the danger of too much legislation, and from the proceedings thus far reported, we are inclined to the opinion that the present Assembly need a little caution upon this point. We have discovered what we fear is too much a desire to introduce "bills"—several members sadly mistaking the probabilities of a failure to distinguish themselves unless they introduced at least a half dozen each. The powers above (at Salem) preserve us from burthensome statutes! Give us few laws and make them plain and simple.

Among the local enactments that have passed or are under consideration, are the following, as far as our memory serves us without a recapitulation of the proceedings published.

Acts to create and organize Baker and Umatilla counties.

An Act to change the name of Lane county to Union county.

An Act in relation to Insane or Idiotic persons. An Act prescribing certain conditions upon which money can be drawn from the State Treasury. An Act assuming and providing for the payment of the Federal Tax from the State Treasury. An Act changing the name of Curry County. An Act in relation to Marriages. Acts to tax Negroes, Chinamen, Kanakas and Dogs. An Act to prevent the immigration of Negroes. Memorial in relation to Branch Mint at Portland. Memorial relative to the poor and ignorant rebels of the Seceded States, and other matters which we are unable to explain.

Among the several acts and propositions which have been defeated was the refusal of the House to admit Mr Kirkpatrick from the district recently created into Baker county as member from that County. Reasoning from our present knowledge of the facts and necessity of this measure, saying nothing of its policy, we cannot but regard this as an unfortunate action, but we have not room at this time to give our views at length—shall probably do so hereafter. The act to change the name of Clatsop County to Astor County was defeated in the Senate by a vote of 8 to 7—notwithstanding the fact that a petition was filed, signed by a large number of the citizens thereof, praying that the name might be changed.

It is quite probable that the full time allowed by the Constitution for the session to last, will be occupied by the present Assembly, and we have heard it further intimated that an extra session will have to be convened by the Governor sometime next spring for the purpose of passing upon the remainder of the Code of which only about one half has been perfected sufficiently to report by the Code Commission. Much of the time of the present session has been occupied in making speeches and in proclaiming [illegible] ical disquisitions upon the various contravening clauses of the Constitution in which a high order of talent is [illegible] visible.—

Whether a [illegible] result will arise therefrom [illegible] so many days hence.

Reported Massacre by Indians

A [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] that the Indians had attacked a party of [illegible] miners in Mormon Canon, about [illegible] miles from Auburn, Powder river, and killed [illegible] persons.

The report comes [illegible] authority, but it is hoped [illegible] is an exaggerated [illegible] the Indians [illegible] Powder river [illegible] Nez Perces [illegible] are [illegible] General Alvord [illegible] two months into Grand Ronde. Cattle and horses are being [illegible] by the Indians from Grand Ronde and the Powder river valleys [illegible] week.

The inhabitants of Grand Ronde Valley are kept in constant dread of an attack by the [illegible] Indians. [illegible] nothing was done to [illegible] this rich and fertile portion of Oregon.

We understand that [illegible] in Powder River Valley not less than [illegible]000 immigrants (men, women and children). We are not fully posted as to the number of people now in Grand Ronde Valley, but believe it to be about four hundred.

SOCIAL PARTY.—A very pleasant party was given by [illegible] to the members of the Legislature at Salem on Wednesday evening last. The entertainment consisted of singing, [illegible] an excellent supper, after which followed more singing and instrumental music, and the playing of a charade quite appropriate to the times. The "word" was guessed by more than a dozen. The [illegible] of the evening was "Putting on Airs" by master Pratt, a sprightly lad of some [illegible] years [illegible]. Quite a large gathering of ladies and gentlemen assembled [illegible] present, and the universal expression [illegible] was that the affair [illegible] was an entire success.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN.—We have wanted some time to ascertain what was meant by the editor of the Statesman in his [illegible] the recent election of a Douglas Democrat to the U S Senate. We have had our suspicions, but concluded to wait further developments. If no further explanation is given by the writer of that article, we shall be under the necessity of guessing out [illegible]. Perhaps some Republican friend who has been admitted into the secret might enlighten us a little on this matter before the next general election.

NUGGET.—We were shown last evening by Mr L. Fuller, Messenger of [illegible] & Co's messenger, a nugget of gold taken from Wilson's Gulch, near Auburn, Powder river, weighing six ounces in full. This is the finest specimen, by all odds, of the precious metal we have yet seen from any place. The chunk is entirely free from quartz, and appears to be solid gold of fine quality. It made us wish we had a hundred like it.

Oregon City has live people. The public improvements in that city the present season—the railroad around the falls—has and will cost ten times the sum all the street improvements in Portland have cost the present year. The work is being done well. The iron is expected in a few weeks from New York, when this great improvement will be completed.

TOOK HIS SEAT.—Col J K Kelly, Senator from Clackamas county, appeared and took his seat in the Senate Chamber at Salem last Thursday. The Senate is now full.

[Communicated]

PORTLAND, Sept 24, 1862.

The editor of the Oregon Statesman is much exercised about a certain person who presumed to allow his name to go before the Legislature as a candidate for the office of United States Senator. The circle of his vision seems filled with this man's naughtiness, and he draws upon his imagination for upon the exaggerations of rumor to paint it, and prints in his paper, which some one has not inappropriately named "the smut machine." The poor Mr. [illegible] will not reply to his senseless and malignant ravings. I propose to throw a little seasoning into the olla-pod of the Statesman, just by way of variety. It may amuse the editor of that paper and it may save him from insanity, a thing which dwelling too long and too intensely upon one subject is said to produce.

Holding up the mirror to [illegible] a few questions naturally [illegible]. Who [illegible] fastening upon the public treasury with the grip of the horse-leech's daughters whichever cried "give!" has retained his hold with a death-like grasp for eleven years until he has amassed a fortune of over $100,000? Who has [illegible] more than any other man in Oregon to prevent the payment of the Oregon War Debt, first by denouncing the war of 185[illegible] and 185[illegible] as gotten up by interested speculators, and then by proscribing all but pliant [illegible] partisans from holding any office in [illegible] war. Who has from the beginning [illegible] to quit [illegible] popular [illegible] the last time so successfully that by the votes of Union men, a majority of them Republicans, he has secured the election of a Douglas Democrat to the United States Senate [illegible] by the same thimbling [illegible] for [illegible] years upon the State and Federal treasuries? Who while he was doing this [illegible] he was receiving [illegible] an appointment from Mr Lincoln's Administration [illegible] to West Point from Oregon [illegible] picked thousands of dollars [illegible] and [illegible] was publishing in the Statesman over his own name derisive and [illegible] remarks concerning the President and Cabinet and similar Generals in the army? Who has [illegible] the election of his right [illegible] as [illegible] with him and as [illegible] was [illegible] with his [illegible]? Who [illegible] Senator Nesmith was voting against the expulsion of the traitor Senator Bright, and was in the [illegible] with [illegible] the Administration [illegible] by his [illegible] no [illegible] election was over [illegible]. The questions [illegible]. Those familiar with Oregon affairs can make the application without possibility of mistake.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

DATES TO SEPT 20.

McClellan offers Rebels Four Hours to Surrender.

Rebels Refuse and are Completely Surrounded.

McClellan still Fighting and Cutting up the Rebel Army.

Destruction of Bridges and Piers at Harper's Ferry

YREKA, Sept 22.

[illegible] Sept 19.—The total value of Government stores destroyed and [illegible] arms [illegible] estimated at half a million dollars. Our loss in killed and wounded is about 100. The works between Charleston and Camp Piatt fell into the rebels' hands with large quantities of salt. The works are now being run day and night by the rebels. The Federals lost 10 pieces of artillery at Mumfordsville.

On the occupation of Harper's Ferry by Burnside the rebels retreated, leaving their ammunition and stores behind. Several hundred Federal troops were left whom they did not have time to parole. They crossed the bridge which was unimpaired, and pursued the rebels as far as Martinsburg.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF POTOMAC, Sept 20.—The rebel army have succeeded in escaping from Maryland. They saved the greater part of their transports and carried all their wounded except [illegible]00.

During the engagement, Wednesday, nearly every house in Sharpsburg was struck by our shells.

The name given to the battle is "Antietam." Our loss has been [illegible]. Rebel loss is found to be far greater than at first supposed. Full twenty-four hundred were found lying on the field, while a much larger number were buried the day before by friends.

Their killed and wounded will not fall short of from eighteen to twenty thousand.

The rebel Generals Ripley, Walker and Hays are wounded and Gen Clark killed.

FREDERICK, Sept 20.—Considerable firing was heard across the Potomac. Burnside is on the Virginia side and pursuing the rebels.

CAIRO, Sept 20.—On Thursday Gen Rosecrans moved from [illegible] south to the line [illegible] of Iuka, Miss, where he met Gen Price with a force of 15,000, who seemed to be marching towards Eastport with the intention of crossing the Tennessee and joining Gen Bragg in Kentucky. At four o'clock yesterday morning heavy skirmishing commenced and lasted till night. Early this morning the fight was renewed, [illegible] when the enemy gave way, retreating southward. Federal loss is not far from 400 killed and wounded.

Rebel loss not ascertained, but it exceeds ours. Among the rebel casualties are Gen Little, formerly Governor of Mississippi, killed; Gen Whitfield severely wounded and a prisoner. We took 500 prisoners. Our army is in full pursuit, and hopes are entertained that we shall at least be able to capture the enemy's artillery.

From California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 19.

The drain of coin for Eastern remittances has caused some inconvenience. About $1[illegible]0,000 was received from the interior last night, making $1[illegible],000 treasure receipts for ten days. Gold bars are quoted at $20, bills on Eastern cities rule at ten and fourteen per cent discount for currency, bills payable in coin offering at three and a half and four per cent premium.

At a meeting of the Patriotic Fund Committee last night, the total of collections figured up to nearly $105,000.

A statement that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company refused to take the California Regiment to Panama for less than regular fare is authoritatively contradicted.

A meeting of ladies will be held in the First Unitarian Church, next Monday, to scrape lint for the troops.

The regular police of this city volunteer to raise among themselves $800 for the Sanitary Fund.

Another batch of Chinamen were arrested for refusing to pay the Federal tax.

Eastern News

CAIRO, Sept 10.—The Grenada Appeal of the 12th says: "A large Confederate force, under Breckinridge, moving northward, had attacked Hernando, 22 miles from Memphis. Their destination is unknown."

The same paper says: "Jeff Davis has notified the Confederate Congress that he would not need any more conscripts, and the conscript bill was consequently tabled."

It is reported that the Confederate Generals with 40,000 men, were within 14 miles of Corinth.

Advices from Springfield, Mo, indicate a gathering of the rebel forces in Northwestern Arkansas, under Hindman, but as yet there is nothing sufficiently positive to determine their strength.

LOUISVILLE, Sept 19.—A multitude of conflicting rumors respecting matters to the south are in circulation and have created considerable excitement. All that is positively known is that Kirby Smith is joining Bragg—his rear having fallen back from Cincinnati two days ago, burning the bridge on the Covington and Lexington Railroad. This city is being formidably intrenched. A great number of slaves have been pressed into the service for this purpose.

SPRINGFIELD (Mo), Sept 19.—The notorious guerrilla chief Hayes was killed in a picket skirmish on the 13th.

Foreign News.

The Paris Pr[illegible] says Spain offered to send a contingent to Mexico, but France would not accept the offer. France sends thirty thousand men.

The press of Lombardy are unanimous in favor of amnesty being granted to Garibaldi and his followers. Nothing has yet been decided in [illegible], and to [illegible]. He had asked to be allowed to embark on an English vessel.

BRECKINRIDGE AFTER WATER.—The New Orleans Delta of August 11th has the following notice of Breckinridge:

"There being no water between here and the Mississippi river," says General Breckinridge in his report of Van Dorn of the battle of Baton Rouge, "I was compelled to come here first"—that is he was compelled to fall back to Amite river, a distance of twelve miles. Here are bravery, enterprise and the [illegible]. General Breckinridge had eight thousand men to his back; the Union army which stood between him and the Mississippi river did not exceed half that number. Yet, the rebel General marches off to Amite river for water. Why did he not drink from the Mississippi? That is the question which his admirers are asking here.

CITY.

THE MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other paper published in this City.

THE DAILY OREGONIAN may be had at the Franklin Book Store, and at Charles Barrett's, Front street.

THE CONCERT LAST NIGHT.—We feel highly justified in stating that the Willamette Theatre never held a larger or more respectable audience than was in attendance last night at the concert given for the benefit of the sick and wounded soldiers. Many went away unable to obtain seats. The managing committee conducted every thing in admirable style, and, all in all, it was one of the best and most pleasing performances ever given in the city. The pulsive notes of the cornet rang out plaintively sweet, Miss Lawrence and the Peterson brothers sung universally well, and were repeatedly encored. Prof. Sinclair, Mr. Yost, and Master also played well. Max Irwin is said to be the best delineator negro character ever grinned in these parts; and with burnt cork, Johnny Collins has no equal. They both let themselves out more humorous than ever. We shall long remember Mr. Denison and his company for thus nobly coming forward and voluntarily offering their services in so charitable a purpose. Several of our citizens also deserve much credit for their energy and activity in perfecting all that was necessary for the occasion.

THE AMOUNT.—The proceeds of the concert last night will increase the Sanitary fund several hundred dollars. The amount realized on that occasion will be published.

—Wells, Fargo & Co., and Messrs. have our thanks for papers from Columbia. They contain nothing of importance however.

CHARITY.—A couple of our citizens raised quite a sum of money yesterday for the relief of one or two destitute families in this city. It speaks well for the generosity of RAFFLING A WATCH!—The gold watch given by a lady of Salem into the hands of the Sanitary Commission for the benefit of the sick and wounded soldiers in the Atlantic States, will be raffled for to-night at the "Gem Saloon." Tickets one dollar.

—Our streets were enlivened yesterday afternoon by the sweet strains of Denison's Cornet band.

—Quite a number of passengers and $10,000 in gold dust came down on the boat last night.

—Frank Dekum has fitted up a new coffee saloon for ladies. He has a fine lot of fresh oysters from the Bay, and is prepared to get them up in every style on short notice. Drop in and see him.

—We have received the following from Mr. Engle, one of the four members of the Legislature from Marion county, the only one who has heretofore spoken, in relation to one of the articles which appeared in a recent number, scandalizing Mr. Pearne, and other defeated candidates from this section for Senator:—

SALEM, Sept. 23, 1862.

OREGONIAN:—The Statesman of the 22d says, "Mr. Engle, a member of the House from this County, voted for Mr. Pearne until the close of the Senatorial contest, and then for Mr. Harding." The above statement is incorrect as the Journals will show. The truth is, I voted for Mr. Pearne until I was convinced he could not be elected, and then for Messrs. Jacobs, Applegate and others, commencing at the 13th ballot, and when I was convinced that neither of them could be elected I voted for Mr. Harding.—In regard to Mr. Bush's opinion about my being endorsed by the citizens of Marion County, I believe that I understand that matter as well as he does.

JOSEPH ENGLE.

The sudden changes of our climate are sources of Pulmonary, Bronchial, and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. Public Speakers and Singers will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

The Markets.

Trade has been unusually brisk during the past week. Our streets have been full of wagons loaded with produce from the country. There is but a slight change in the prices current, to which we call the attention of our readers. The price of fruit has declined somewhat, the market being full. Butter, lard, and eggs, have advanced considerable, owing to the demand. In foreign groceries, sugar is the only article that offers any change, an advance being made in Powdered, Island, and China No. 1 sugars. No other changes

There's a Letter awaiting for You.

A soldier in the Union army is the author of the following [illegible]

There's a letter awaiting for you, Lizzie Lee,
There's a letter awaiting for you,
From [illegible] who went away o'er the sea,
To fight for the red, white and blue.
[illegible] when they started,
As [illegible] off [illegible]
[illegible] through [illegible], although much broken hearted,
To think of you, [illegible] so brave, Lizzie Lee,
To think of your lover so brave.

And what is he telling to you, Lizzie Lee,
And what is he telling to you?
He [illegible] by the light in your eyes [illegible]
[illegible] a lover so true.
[illegible] word were he now that he should not [illegible],
Could he gaze on the flush of your cheek,
And [illegible] the high hopes that [illegible] your beauty,
As plainly as [illegible] can speak, Lizzie Lee,
As plainly as language can speak.

If I had a lover like you, Lizzie Lee,
If I had a lover like you,
With [illegible] light in the flag of the free,
I would weep, too, when saying adieu.
Yet [illegible] on the [illegible] the rush and the rattle,
For the life of our liberty tree,
Then after the [illegible] of the day of the battle
Perchance he'd be writing to me, Lizzie Lee,
Perchance he'd be writing to me.

What a blessing to all as to you, Lizzie Lee,
What a blessing to all, as to you,
That wherever the [illegible] may be,
We can write to the loyal and true!
And the soldier, who toils, overtasked heavily laden,
When the daylight grows dusky and dim,
May retire to his tent to commune with his maiden,
Or the mother who prayeth for him, Lizzie Lee,
Or the mother who prayeth for him.

The Story of an Italian Heroine.

One of those long and picturesque torch light funerals, which are so striking to a stranger's eye, as they wind up to the new extramural burial ground of Florence among the olives and cypresses of the steep hill of San Miniato, issued from the Duomo a few evenings since, and took it away at the Ave Maria towards the Porta San Nicholo followed by a great concourse of all ranks of persons. It was the funeral of Tonina Marinello, a young Venetian woman in the bloom of life, who had fought bravely by her husband's side in the ranks of Garibaldi's gallant "thousand," when they swept victoriously through Sicily, from Marsala to Messina, and thence to Naples and Capua, carrying all before them.

The carrying home of the poor Garibaldina, whose short life had ended sadly in Florence, amid the straits of pinching poverty, would at any time have called forth a manifestation of public respect and sympathy. Now, of course, the crowd following the procession was swelled by those of the ultra red party, who would fain have given it the appearance of a demonstration.

The little story of Tonina is a moving touch of romance in real life, yet as simple and winning, as were her slender figure and fair pale face, shaded with the golden-brown hair which so often shines out from the canvases of the old Venetian painters. Nothing of assumption, nothing of unfeminine or theatrical sternness contributed to shape the attitude of her quiet courage. Her husband, who in his early youth had fought the battle of 1848, was employed when the war of 1859 broke out, and the youth of Venice emigrated by hundreds into the neighboring liberated provinces, in the dangerous service of guide to these fugitives from Austrian vengeance, across the desolate track of country laid waste by the capricious inundations of the Po, which lies between them and the longed-for river bank, from which they steered across into a land of safety. The secret liberal committees of the Venetian territory had in their employ many such trusty servants, ready to dare all risks to convey the ardent young volunteers, penniless and friendless, across the perilous ground, and to pass them from one another under cover of night, unscratched by Austrian bullets to the frontier. Marinello and his wife were among the bravest and trustiest of their guides, until, after many months exercise of their dangerous profession, the suspicions of their Austrian authorities fell on them and they too were forced to fly with their only child, a little girl of tender age, and take refuge at Modena.

Garibaldi's noble forlorn hope was just then setting forth for Sicily. Marinello quitted his temporary refuge and hurried to join it, and his wife, refused to be separated from him, left her little one to the care of a near friend who promised to adopt her as his own, and went to Genoa, where finding that the expedition had already started, they set sail in the first fishing-boat that left the port for Marsala.

Once there, Marinello joined the Sacchi brigade of volunteers; but though both he and his wife were well known for bravery and good conduct to Col. Farracini who commanded it, the stringent orders issued from headquarters against the admission of women into the ranks, rendered it a matter of no small difficulty for Tonina to remain at her husband's side. She did, however, at length prevail with the colonel, and her name was entered on the rolls as that of Antonio Marinello, the boy-brother of her husband; nor did any individual in the corps in which she served during the whole campaign guess her sex, which was known only to Cols. Farracina and Bosi. Her slight from the youthful appearance tallied well with that of a number of the striplings who fought in the ranks beside her; she wore the common Garibaldi uniform, and endured fatigue and hardship full as well as her comrades—and the hardships and fatigues of that campaign were neither slight nor few.

Her commanding officers give high testimony to the valor, the discipline and the unflagging spirit of this unassuming little Venetian heroine, who was decorated by the generals' own hand on the field of battle. They say she was ever the first to volunteer for some dangerous duty, and the last to quit her post while that duty was unfulfilled; and all agree that she gained the affection, respect and admiration of her fellow-soldiers, by her bravery in the field, and her good-humored helplessness in camp life.

Tonina fought through the campaign unscathed, though her husband received several but not severe wounds. When Capua was taken, and the volunteer-corps were disbanded, husband and wife turned their steps again towards Modena, and, finding the friend dead who had given a home to their child, brought her on with them to Florence, and there lived poorly on from day to day, partly on their own small earnings, and partly on the assistance given to them by the committee for the Venetian emigration. It was not before the wife was far gone in wasting disease of the lungs that the extreme distress of the poor household was fully known to those who had means to relieve it. Succor was immediately and generously given; the dying mother was placed under the best medical care, and the delicate little girl sent to the sea side and admitted into the admirable Ospizj Marini, or hospital for sickly children, at Via Reggia.—But the help so much needed came too late for poor Tonina, though the same care two or three months earlier might have saved her life. She died as meekly as she had lived, in the home where she had struggled through her last suffering year of existence. The arms she had borne in battle and her faded red Garibaldi shirt were laid among the garlands on her coffin; and a simple gravestone will be placed above her at San Miniato, where the beautiful church terrace looks out over the towers and domes of Florence to the sunlit hills.

It is stated that Parson Brownlow has already cleared upwards of $17,000 by the sale of the books.

A Conversation with Jeff Davis.—John Gourley, a member of Col. Baker's California regiment, has just returned from captivity among the rebels. He was taken prisoner with a comrade at Hampton, near Fortress Monroe, while on [illegible], and placed in one of the tobacco warehouses in Richmond. From his narrative in the Philadelphia Press we take the following:

One day who should come stalking into my cell but Jefferson Davis, who, to get a cheap reputation for philanthropy, occasionally visited the prison.

"My friend," said he, "what are you fighting for?"

I answered him—"For the Union, for the Constitution, and for the enforcement of the laws against those who [illegible] the country."

"Oh! come, be honest with me; ain't you fighting for the old stars and stripes more than the Constitution?"

"Mr. Davis," I answered, "myself and our whole army fight for the Constitution, with the stars and stripes."

He was silent for awhile. At length he observed:

"You can better your situation at once, if you want to. I'll tell you what I am willing to do for you, and I would not make the same proposition every day. If you join our army I will guarantee not only to release you this evening, but give you a commission."

I answered, "I would rather be a prisoner in your jail than an officer in your army."

"Yes, yes, you are prejudiced against us, now, but you'll find us a different set of people than your papers have represented us. Why, the South can never be subjugated! It's impossible!"

With that he turned away, and presently was buzzing in the next cell—as I afterwards learned—repeating his "proposition." My comrade answered him substantially as I had done, and we saw no more of President Davis.

In the excavations now taking place at Pompeii 220 workmen are employed, and a railroad has been built through the city to facilitate the carrying off the superincumbent soil. It is 120 years since Pompeii was exhumed, and only one-third of the city has yet been brought to light.

Address, DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco.

Of all diseases, the first great cause,
Springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

To the Afflicted:

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret diseases. Self-Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleet, Gravel, Diabetes, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Mercurial Rheumatism, Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance, and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs, such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Disease, Eruptions upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities, and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians, and resisted all their means of cure. [illegible] [illegible] During [illegible] years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands, who, in the last stages of the above mentioned diseases had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care, a speedy and permanent cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Self-abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases [illegible] so destructive a drain upon the system, drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business, and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of self-abuse, that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and with the abandonment of ruinous practices, my patients can be restored to robust, vigorous health.

Irregularities and all diseases of males and females treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice, and sanctioned by thousands of the most remarkable cures. Medicines, with full directions sent to any part of the State, Oregon and Washington Territory, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter.

All business correspondence strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s Office, San Francisco.
